Une anthropologie entre rigueur et engagement. Essais autour de l'oeuvre de Jean-Pierre Olivier de Sardan-BIERSCHENK T., BLUNDO G., JAFFRE Y. et TIDJANI ALOU M. (dir.) 2010-04-10 Jean-Pierre Olivier de Sardan s'est toujours préoccupé de former de jeunes chercheurs et s'est attaché à constituer de véritables équipes de recherche. Autour de son oeuvre, ses "compagnons de route" soulignent combien ses réflexions ont irrigué leurs propres travaux et comment il a ainsi contribué à entraîner la discipline anthropologique vers un certain type de pratique scientifique combinant une forme particulière d'engagement, un rapport exigeant au terrain et une façon d'écrire accessible à tous. Inter-Ethnic Dynamics in Asia-Christian Culas 2009-12-18 South-East Asia is one of the most complex regions in the world as far as ethnic, linguistic and cultural diversity is concerned with an extremely rich ancient and contemporary history. Because of this, it offers an exceptionally rich field of study for inter-ethnic relations. This book examines interethnic relationships between groups and the dynamics of exchange networks throughout Asia and includes case studies based in Vietnam, Burma, Laos, Nepal, China, and Siberia. The innovative aspect of this book lies in the fact that the contributors examine relationships between groups and the dynamics of exchange networks across Asia rather than ethnic groups studied in isolation. Rendering the important moments of daily life of ethnic groups and focussing on the exchanges between groups sharing a specific social space, this approach, today still rarely used in Asian anthropology, allows systems of exchange to emerge and for us to understand the systems of power and local leadership from the inside out. Inter-Ethnic Dynamics in Asia will be of interest to students and scholars of Asian culture and society, ethnicity and regional anthropology. Borders across Healthcare-Nina Sahraoui 2020-06-01 Examining which actors determine undocumented migrants' access to healthcare on the ground, this volume looks at what happens in the daily interactions between administrative personnel, healthcare professionals and migrant patients in healthcare institutions across Europe. Borders across Healthcare explores contemporary moral economies of the healthcare-migration nexus. The volume documents the many ways in which borders come to disrupt healthcare settings and illuminates how judgements of a health-related deservingness become increasingly important, producing hierarchies that undermine a universal right to healthcare. Real Governance and Practical Norms in Sub-Saharan Africa-Tom De Herdt 2015-05-15 Although international development discourse considers the state as a crucial development actor, there remains a significant discrepancy between the official norms of the state and public services and the actual practices of political elites and civil servants. This text interrogates the variety of ways in which state policies and legal norms have been translated into the set of practical norms which make up real governance in sub-Saharan Africa. It argues that the concept of practical norms is an appropriate tool for an ethnographic investigation of public bureaucracies, interactions between civil servants and users, and the daily functioning of the state in Africa. It demonstrates that practical norms are usually different from official norms, complementing, bypassing and even contradicting them. In addition, it explores the positive and negative effects of different aspects of this 'real governance'. This text will be of key interest to academics, students and researchers in the fields of development, political science, anthropology and development studies, African studies, international comparative studies, implementation studies, and public policy.

Researching the Military-Helena Carreiras 2016-03-02 Researching the Military focuses on the experiences of researchers who study the military around the world. It explores the historical, social, institutional and personal factors that frame research and scrutinize the way knowledge in this area impacts society and policy. More than merely analyzing research experiences (yet necessarily including them), it is also about the experiences of researchers, their position with regard to the object of their studies, the institutional context where they work and the way their research impacts the academic and policy-making fields in the respective countries. The common theme to the various chapters is reflexivity, a conscious effort at addressing the conditions of research and the position of the researcher and the research participants in that interface. By collecting diverse experiences of researchers from across the world, this volume aims to enhance reflexivity in the field of military studies and to encourage the exchange of knowledge between the academic field and the military arena. This book will be of much interest to students of military studies, research methods, sociology, social anthropology and security studies, in general.

Counting Populations, Understanding Societies-Véronique Petit 2013-02-11 The core aim of this book is to determine how anthropology and demography can be used in conjunction in the field of population and development. The boundaries of demography are not as clearly defined or as stable as one might think, especially in view of the tension between a formal demography centered on the 'core of procedures and references' and a more open form of demography, generally referred to as Population Studies. Many rapprochements, missed opportunities and isolated attempts marked the disciplinary history of anthropology and demography, both disciplines being founded on distinct and highly differentiated traditions and practices. Moreover, the role and the place assigned to epistemology differ significantly in ethnology and demography. Yet, anthropology and demography provide complementary models and research instruments and this book shows that neither discipline can afford to overlook their respective contributions. Based on research conducted in West Africa over more than twenty years, it is a defense of field demography that makes case for a continuum ranging from the initial conception of fieldwork and research to its effective implementation and to data analysis. Changes in behaviors relating to fertility, poverty or migration cannot be interpreted without invoking the cultural factor at some stage. Representations in their collective and individual dimensions also fit into the extended explanatory space of demography.

Anthropology and Development-Jean-Pierre Oliver De-Sardan 2013-07-18 This book re-establishes the relevance of mainstream anthropological (and sociological) approaches to development processes and simultaneously recognizes that contemporary development ought to be anthropology's principal area of study. Professor de Sardan argues for a socio-anthropology of change and development that is a deeply empirical, multidimensional, diachronic study of social groups and their interactions. The Introduction provides a thought-provoking examination of the principal new approaches that have emerged in the discipline during the 1990s. Part I then makes clear the complexity of social change and development, and the ways in which socio-anthropology can measure up to the challenge of this complexity. Part II looks more closely at some of the leading variables involved in the development process, including relations of production; the logics of social action; the nature of knowledge; forms of mediation; and 'political' strategies.

Maladies et pratiques magiques au Sénégal-Raymond Sémédo 2013-10-01 Les représentations sociales de la maladie dépendent du contexte culturel de leur production. En effet, les nombreux êtres culturels qui peuplent l'univers visible ou invisible sont des agents non-microbiens de la maladie selon les croyances. Les croyances se sont adaptées à la société marchande-libérale et à son idéologie de compétition et d'émulation sociale. La ville, les banlieues de Dakar, les régions du Sénégal, les campagnes ont été les terrains d'observation. African migrations- 2004

La yourte et la mesure du monde-Anne-Marie Vuilleminot 2009
Otinchi, berger kazakh, se souvient de la première rencontre avec l'auteur après l'indépendance de son pays : " Tu es venue en premier, et après toi le capitalisme la troisième fois que tu es venue, tous les moutons avaient été mangés n. Entre monographie et témoignage, cet ouvrage livre au lecteur l'écho des dernières transhumances dans le sud-est du Kazakhstan. La vie dans la yourte, hutte mobile de feutre et de bois, s'articule autour de deux axes horizontaux, aîné / cadet, masculin / féminin, et d'un axe vertical, celui de l'arbre des mondes où les deux ouvertures de l'habitation, le chanirak au sommet du toit et la porte, sont considérées comme des voies d'accès aux au-delà du monde des humains. C'est cette organisation spatiale qui fonde la société traditionnelle kazakhe et qui permet à chacun d'y trouver sa place. En donnant la mesure du monde, la yourte est un opérateur de sens. Dans les steppes et les montagnes environnantes, la vie quotidienne est rude, parfois dangereuse ; elle perpétue le respect des équilibres entre les mondes, entre les personnes, et favorise la circulation de la belle parole, celle-là même qui intervient dans les échanges avec les Dieux, les habitants des autres mondes et les djinns. Génération-charnière puisqu'elle a connu la période soviétique, la chute du Mur et la nouvelle République, ces fils et filles des steppes et des montagnes ont dû accepter de quitter la yourte pour assurer un avenir à leurs enfants. A partir d'une ethnographie de la vie dans la yourte, l'auteur présente un monde nomade à jamais disparu et interroge, pour finir, les transformations du modèle social kazakh coutumier désormais entré en modernité.

Elusive Hunters-Ida Nicolaisen 2010
"This is an account of a remarkable nomadic people in West Africa, presumably the only hunting and foraging community to withstand its bloody legacy of slave-raiding, colonization, warfare and environmental degradation of the Sahel to our time. The book traces the history of this unique but little known people to the Banu Duku Empire in Chad in the sixth century AD that is to the very origin of the Sudanese States. Based on her own fieldwork and 'excavation' of the scanty sources on Kanem and the Bahr el Ghazal, the author offers a fascinating description of the everyday life, subsistence activities, dwellings, poetry, music and crafts of the Haddad and their interaction with pastoral and agro-pastoral groups. The book takes the reader on hunting expeditions with a group which chases gazelle and antelope into cleverly placed 'traps' of nets and describes how hunters of another group crawl up upon their prey in disguise with bow and arrow as did prehistoric man in the region known to us from Saharan rock paintings. The analysis anchors the Haddad within the complex historical and multi-ethnic setting of the region and outlines the traumatic social and cultural implications for these nomadic people of warfare, the presence of dominant groups, French colonial policies and more recent interventions by the State. The ongoing existence of nomadic peoples in West Africa has so far gone largely unnoticed. It is the intention of the book to stimulate the interest of scholars and a wider readership of African history, culture and social issues by adding this unique material on the indigenous Haddad to the puzzle."--Publisher's description.

Enhancing Democratic Systems-Christina Chan-Meetoo 2012 It is in Mauritius that the first newspaper of the African continent was published. Annonces, Affiches et Avis Divers was created in 1773 by the French administration for the islands of Mauritius and Reunion. Since its independence from Britain in 1968, Mauritius has known a very rich media history with an impressive number of publications and a relatively good level of press freedom. However, many challenges remain. Confrontational episodes in the relationship of the local media with the political sphere, the rise of sensationalist journalism, increased concentration of ownership in the industry as well as market uncertainties have taken their toll on a profession which often prides itself in the defence of freedom of speech and democracy. The media conference jointly organised by UNESCO and the University of Mauritius in 2010 offered a singular opportunity - the first time ever in Mauritius - for media practitioners, regulators, lawyers, politicians, academics and civil society to discuss the state of the media as part of the country's democratic systems. Media roles and functions, the legal and regulatory framework, self-regulation, market issues and new trends such as citizen journalism were thoroughly examined. This book brings together papers and conclusions from that conference. Whilst much ground has been covered especially since the emergence of private radio stations, much still needs to be done to move towards a true media democracy. The book points to media governance, access to information, training of and professionalism among media practitioners as areas of unfinished business. This is an invaluable contribution to on-going debates about press regulation, liberalisation of electronic media, new forms of journalism, continuous training and professionalization in Mauritius.

Life Phases, Mobility and Consumption-Professor Helene Brembeck 2015-08-28 In today's consumer society, shopping is the kind of mundane and routine kind of mobility that we all engage in. Yet having a first child or growing old radically changes people's logistical habits as consumers, what the authors of this book call consumer logistics. Exploring consumer mobility through the lens of life phase and age will deepen the understanding of hitherto under-researched aspects of the ageing process and of mobility, knowledge that is of vital importance for societies striving for sustainable mobility and sustainable cities.

Everyday Corruption and the State-Giorgio Blundo 2013-04-04 Daily life in Africa is governed by the 'petty' corruption of public officials in services such as health, transport, or the judicial system. This remarkable study of everyday corruption in three African countries investigates the reasons for its extraordinary prevalence. The authors construct an illuminating analytical framework around the various forms of corruption, the corruptive strategies public officials resort to, and how these forms and strategies have become embedded in daily administrative practices. They investigate the roots of the system in the growing inability of weakened states in Africa to either reward their employees adequately or to deliver expected services. They conclude that corruption in Africa today is qualitatively different from other parts of the world in its pervasiveness, its legitimations, and its huge impact on the nature of the state.

Cash Transfers in Context-Jean-Pierre Olivier de Sardan 2018-09-07 Marginal in status a decade ago, cash transfer programs have become the preferred channel for delivering emergency aid or tackling poverty in low-and middle-income countries. While these programs have had positive effects, they are typical of top-down development interventions in that they impose on local contexts standardized norms and procedures regarding conditionality, targeting, and delivery. This book sheds light on the crucial importance of these contexts and the many unpredicted consequences of cash transfer programs worldwide - detailing how the latter are used by actors to pursue their own strategies, and how external norms are reinterpreted, circumvented, and contested by local populations.

Recueil de travaux relatifs à la philologie et à l'archéologie égyptiennes et assyriennes- 1900 Recueil de travaux relatifs à la philologie et à l'archéologie égyptiennes et assyriennes- 1901 La méthodologie qualitative-Pierre Paillé 2006 La méthodologie qualitative se caractérise par le recours à des approches, méthodes et techniques d'approche directe du sens des phénomènes humains et sociaux, sans le passage par la mesure et la quantification. Son usage est de plus en plus répandu, les recherches foisonnent. La question la plus cruciale est sans doute celle de la posture du chercheur dans ce type d'approche. Peut-on encore parler d'objectivité ? L'implication du chercheur représente-t-elle un obstacle ou un levier ? L'analyse des données s'accommode-t-elle bien de modèles théoriques étrangers à la situation précise de recherche ? A quelles conditions le chercheur qualitatif peut-il revendiquer la rigueur dans son travail sur le terrain comme dans ses analyses ? Le présent ouvrage apporte de solides éléments de réponse. Les auteurs, chercheurs sur des terrains très variés, abordent les points les plus sensibles : la tension entre appartenance scientifique et familiarité avec les enquêtés, l'objectivation du sujet et de l'objet, les états d'âme et leur prise en compte, les postures d'analyse des données, les dimensions de l'activité interprétative, la construction du raisonnement scientifique à partir d'indices, etc. Ce livre s'adresse aux étudiants en SHS (sociologie, psychologie, anthropologie, histoire, sciences de l'éducation, communication, etc.), aux enseignants et aux chercheurs.
